$600,000 Good-Roads Money Sacrificed

Other Article Wrong County Puts up Everything. No 50-50 Basis With State

The Gazette two weeks ago exposed a secret deal fostered by the commissioners of Bedford county to build on a 50-50 basis with the state the road leading from Yellow Creek to the Huntingdon county line through Hopewell, Broad Top and Liberty townships. We were mistaken at the time when we said that the county was doing this piece of road construction on a 50-50 basis with the state. The state has nothing to do with putting up the money. The county puts up all the money. And besides that $200,000 won't build the road. It will require at least $325,000 and the commissioners say it won't be built until next year. That is another concocted scheme. They think they can re-elect Bradley and a re-election would mean an endorsement to go ahead with the road no matter what the cost. Surely the taxpayers of Bedford county are smart enough to see that if they would have required the townships to put up their one-fourth and the State its one-half according to law, $200,000 appropriated by the county would make available $800,000 for good road purposes—$600,000 good-roads money sacrificed in order to bolster up Smith in the Legislature and elect Bradley to be county commissioner for another term. These two men are very valuable assets to Bedford county. These $800,000 would not only build this road contemplated but would build all the mileage applied for by the townships and would extend the road from Everett to Clearville and build a good haul for Hyndman this way and give West St. Clair, Alum Bank, New Paris, Napier and New Buena Vista some state roads to get out to the pike. Rainsburg and Colerain would be taken care of and Snake Spring would be on the map for more good roads. Mann, Monroe, Southampton and West Providence Townships would be helped out of the mud. The Press said last week that the road won't be built this year. Well, if won't be built this year, it won't be built at all, by the County alone. By next year we will have another board of commissioners, Republican or Democratic. The people won't stand for any raw deals like the Everett Press and the gang in Bedford have attempted to put over. The next day, Friday, after the article in the Gazette appeared, a caucus was held in Harry James's office. That night Clegg appeared and on Saturday Layton and another bunch were on the scene. Layton and Bradley seem to think that there won't be any thing to it. The people will swallow it whole and say nothing. Does Layton think that his people will stand for a bond issue of $200,000 to build a road from Yellow Creek to Huntingdon county line alone when his people are clamoring for a road which is used twenty times more than all or any section of the road from Yellow Creek to Huntingdon, throwing away the one-fourth other townships are willing to put up and the one-half the State is willing to contribute, or $600,000 available good-roads money? We want to repeat our statement of two weeks ago—Bedford county wants to get rid of T. C. Bradley, as county commissioner. He is an expensive commodity to the taxpayers of Bedford county. In fact he doesn't consider the expense of anything. All he wants to know is whether the politicians are for it. Putting it off till next year is a scheme of the Everett Press to get Bradley elected again and the election will be an endorsement of the $200,000 bond issue and the road will be built then at any cost. We have no objections to the road being built but we do object to the county being bonded $200,000 to build it alone when the townships will put up 1/4 and the State 1/2. If they do that then the county would have to put up $50,000 and the other $150,000 can be used some other place in the county, providing that $50,000 as 1/4 would be sufficient. We do not think it would. We think it would require at least $75,000 as the county's share. Let the people beware of Bradley. Layton knows nothing about the office and only follows Bradley but his leader is bad and he makes such a good follower. Bradley wants the valuations raised and if re-elected he will raise them. This will give him more funds to handle and this is what he wants. TAXPAYERS, BEWARE!

U. S. Seeks All Entitled To Care and Treatment

To insure care in hospitals and sanatoria for discharged sick and disabled soldiers, sailors and marines and male and female nurses of the Army and Navy, the Secretary of the Treasury, Surgeon General Blue of the Public Health Service, and Col. Henry D. Lindsley of the War Risk Insurance Bureau have planned a campaign of national publicity to find all persons entitled to such treatment and instruct them how to obtain it. State and municipal health officers representatives of the National Tuberculosis Association, and the American Red Cross have been requested to refer to various branches of the Public Health Service all persons needing relief. Officials of corporations, benevolent associations and others will be asked to give their assistance in this effort to provide care to every man and woman to whom it is owing. Because he is out of knaki And earning his daily food, He's not a bit less a real soldier,— For he is the man who made good!

Doughnut Day In Bedford

A fitting climax to the Salvation Army Drive of the week will be the sale of doughnuts on Saturday on the streets of Bedford. Everyone knows the significance of the doughnut. How the Salvation Army lassies made rolled, fried and served the doughnut to the soldiers on the battlefronts in France many times under shell fire.

Now the homely doughnut must serve a peaceful purpose on account of the sentiment attached to it and help to raise a home service fund for the salvationsists.

Buy Doughnuts, eat doughnuts and carry doughnuts home with you. Every doughnut will be made by the recipe used by the lassies at the front.

County Chairman, Jere C. West has completed the organization of the county and everywhere the local chairman are hard at work in their districts.

Mr. B. F. Madore and Mrs. S. C. Hulse have forty complete units of men and women workers started on the drive and already reports are coming in that districts are oversubscribing their quotas.

No district has been overlooked. A well organized force of earnest men and women are busy at work determined that once again Bedford county shall go "over the top" for the Salvation Army Home Service Fund.

German Loss Appalling

German war losses up to April 30 last were: 2,050,460 dead; 4,207,023 wounded and 615,922 missing; a total of 6,876,410, according to figures published in Berlin.

It will take Germany over a century to rehabilitate its manhood before it can hope to rehabilitate its business.

Putting It Squarely

"What else can we do but sign?" is the way a German envoy puts it. "We are on our backs, your knees are on our stomachs and your thumbs in our eyes."

That is not so bad. We have you down but there is some salvation for you. Had you won our stomachs would have been torn out forcibly and our eyes dug out without reserve. You must admit that our treatment is not near so drastic as yours.

To catch the rooster that still is uncaged in June may seem like running a marathon, but the chase is worth the making.

Internal Revenue Notice

The Registration fee for Narcotics such as medicines containing opium, codeine, heroin, etc., has been raised as of May 20, 1919 to $1.00 for any part of a year, instead of the former fee of $.50 paid heretofore. All Registrations and inventories paid hereafter for the half-year January 1, 1919 to June 30 1919 will be paid for at the new rate.

Deputy Collector James H. O'Rourke sitting at Bedford Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays, until further notice.

Upwards of a hundred automobile owners in Bedford County who have hauled passengers since January 1, 1919, for either fixed or nominal fares, have failed to report for the Special Tax Stamp required by the new Revenue Bill of February 25, 1919. Failure to report before June 1, 1919 will involve the owners in liability for both additional tax and a specific penalty. Car owners who are in doubt as to their liability may report either by mail or in person to the Deputy Collector.

Blanks for the War taxes are not out yet, but it is believed that they will be issued for general distribution before June 1, 1919.

Child Welfare Conferences

Dr. C. Muon, a French woman physician, has arrived in America to take part in a series of conferences on child welfare standards in various cities in the United States under the auspices of the Federal Children's Bureau. She will tell how the French Minister of War worked to save babies whose mothers were working in munitions factories during the war. She was in charge of the nurseries established in these factories.

It only required a word from the President to effectually check the report that he was attempting to commit America to a secret alliance. No level-headed man would allow himself to be deceived by such a rumor, and its circulation shows to what limit his enemies will go in their attempt to discredit him.

Some Republican papers are saying that the Republicans and the "Progressives" will "get together" during the next session of Congress. Judging the factions wholly by their exchanges of "courtesies" it is pretty certain that if they do "get together" some one will have to call the police.

Decoration Day Exercises In Court House

Extensive preparations are being made by the committee for the proper observance of Memorial Day in Bedford. The exercises will be held in the Court House at 10 o'clock in the morning. The music will be in charge of the Bedford Band and the Union Choir. The address of the day will be delivered by Hon. Hiram L. Wynn, of Philadelphia, a noted patriotic orator.

Gone "Over" In Armenian Drive

District Chairman John L. Zeth Kimmell John A. Finnegan Mann's Choice Amos Crippen Harrison W. C. Shoemaker Snake Spring Alvah Shuss Bedford Boro. John P. Cuppett

All district chairmen are urged to get busy on this needed support and have the remaining districts to raise their quotas. County Chairman, B. F. Madore, Esq. is anxious that all districts measure up to the requirement and not slack. This is a benevolent cause like the Red Cross and the Armenians need these funds for relief.

A Successful Meeting

The union evangelistic meeting held at New Paris in the Evangelical church which was the church to hold the same, in the order of routine work, from Sunday morning May 4 to Sunday evening May 18, was decidedly a success. The persons conducting the work were evangelists: L. M. Nanninga, saxophonist and gospel singer; George D. Reep both of Chicago; and Miss Lulu Witherup of Akron Ohio pianist. They advocated the words of Christ. "Ye must be borne again."

During the progress of the meeting over fifty persons presented themselves at an altar of prayer, and the churches of the town were revived. Judging by the crowded audiences at each session, the committee on arrangements deserve praise in securing such an able earnest, zealous trio of spiritual workers.

Rev. Nanninga is "A live man with a live message." Mr. Reep is an excellent musical director and has few superiors as a saxophonist and soloist. Miss Witherup is a fine pianist and accompanist and a noble soul winner.

Foe's Yearly Debt 6 Billion Interest

The correspondent of the Daily Telegraph in Paris wires his paper under date of Wednesday:

"Those here whose apprehensions of grave financial difficulties in France from the heavy war burdens had been quieted by assurance, too confidently made in some quarters, perhaps, that Germany might and can pay, have been painfully awakened to realities by the financial conditions of the peace treaty and by the statement of the new German Finance Minister, Herr Durnburg, just published in the Kolnische Zeitung.

The German public debt, according to Herr Durnburg totaled 11,000,000,000 marks on Jan. 31, 1918 and had increased to 15,000,000,000 marks on April 30 last, consequently upon further issues of Treasury bills in the beginning of the year (a mark nominally is 23.3 cents.) The floating debt and issue of bank notes continues to grow without interruption.

Herr Durnburg alleges that the annual burden laid on the shoulders of German taxpayers from this debt will amount to 17,500,000,000 marks. But this does not represent the total charges that the public debt will require from the taxpayers of the country. There must be added interest on the special debts of the several federal states and townships, which need annually another sum of 6,000,000,000 marks to cover it.

"Therefore the grand total that the empire will have to pay in interest each year stands at over 23,000,000,000 marks (more than $5,000,000,000.)

Decoration Day Exercises

Decoration day exercises will be held in Friend's Cove Brick Reformed church, May 30, 1919. An all day program is being arranged. The principal speakers will be Rev. Bell of Bedford and Rev. Bear. The former in the forenoon and the latter in the afternoon. The P. O. S. of A., the P. O. of A. the I. O. O. F. and the Grange are all invited to take part.

One by one Republican "issues" have vanished like will o' the wisps. The conduct of the war, the making of peace, the league of nations—all have failed them as partisan battle cries. Only the tariff remains, but it is so old and decrepit and feeble that it may shortly pass away.

Drys Expect To Force Early Action To Put All Beer Under Ban

Senator Shepherd of Texas and Senator Jones of Washington will introduce at Washington prohibition enforcement bills being prepared by the anti Saloon league and hope to have them enacted before July 1. It is not likely that such good speed can be made on the bills, however as senators will discuss in a leisurely way and at great length the subjects of peace and perhaps financial legislation for weeks and weeks after the session which opened on Wednesday, last.

The liquor situation in the nation and the state is clearing somewhat. Attorney General Palmer refuses to say that it is the duty of the government under the dry law to prosecute makers of hard cider. More important to the liquor interests was the decision by Judge Augustus N. Hand in the United States court at New York Saturday denying motions made on behalf of the government for dismissal of the injunction suit brought by the Jacob Hoffman Brewing Co. The government attorneys said the court had no jurisdiction and that in fact the brewers could not sue the government at all in the matter. The Hoffman Co. is attempting to establish the right under the law, to more than 2.75 per cent by weight of alcohol.

Congress Must Define.

Judge Hand knocks out some of the arbitrary powers claimed by the government officials. He decides three important points by ruling that the kind of beer that is prohibited by the war time prohibition act is "intoxicating beer," and not all beer, as the attorney general contended; that on a proper showing the United States district attorney, despite his quasi-judicial character, may be enjoined from construing and enforcing a statute to the irreparable damage of property in a manner with which the court disagrees; and that if congress intends that non-intoxicating beverages may be prohibited as a method of assuring the enforcement of the prohibition against intoxicating beverages, it must say so plainly and explicitly—which it has not yet done. In other words, the power of federal officers to read into the law what congress did not put there is flatly denied. This is a famous test case on beer.

At Harrisburg too the state officers of the administration which was willing to ratify the Prohibition amendment are seeking to restrain the dry legislature from loading the statute books with laws which would make it the duty of the state officers to enforce prohibition. Following conferences in Philadelphia, the liquor interests were confident that the various enforcement bills now pending and which are already toothless, will be killed today or very shortly. Attorney General Schaffer is said to take the view that it would be useless for the general assembly to pass enforcement laws before congress defines "intoxicating liquors" within the meaning of the eighteenth amendment, and that individual attempts by the states to make definitions would lead to endless confusion.

Million War Risk Checks Mailed

During April, the Bureau of War Risk Insurance mailed out 1,097,000 checks amounting to $38,990,000. On May 1, 56,000 checks were mailed out to be beneficiaries of men who have died in the military service.

Since October 6, 1917 when the War Risk Insurance act became effective, the Bureau has sent out more than 15,000,000 checks to the dependents of men in the service, paying out more than $196,500,000 in allowances, allowances and insurance and compensation awards.

The checks go to every corner of the world. During March 30,000 checks were mailed to foreign countries. Italy gets the greatest number. More than 2,500 foreign checks are being held by the bureau because of suspended mail service. Among them are a few for dependents who are in Germany. More than 1,000 destined for Russia are among those being held.

Bodies Still In Water

Several days have now elapsed since the tragedy near Lewistown, when seven men were drowned, and thus far no trace of some of the bodies has been found.

The water has fallen seven or eight feet below the stage when the men were drowned, but it is still above normal, and it is very muddy as a result of the frequent rains during the past day or two, making the work of searching for them very difficult.

The riggers' gang from the Standard steel works have been searching the river bed day and night without getting a trace of the bodies.

The last day or so of rain has swollen the river so that no trace of the remaining bodies is looked for for several days.

MISS BOOTH, IN RAGS, AIDED LONDON POOR

Salvation Army Commander, Disguised, Roamed Through Slums to Study Intimate Problems of East End Unfortunates.

the East End of London disguised in rags that she might help the unfortunate. When her father stood erect amid a storm of abuse and even physical violence she stood beside him.

"She knows how the poor suffer because she has suffered with them. She knows there still remains in the wreck of a dissolute man a spark of manhood that will kindle a redeeming flame, because she has fanned many flickering sparks until her patient has regained his feet. She now heads the Salvation Army in the United States at the great moment of its career. The old time slurs and doubts have been banished. During the week of May 19-26 the Salvation Army will appeal to the people of the United States for thirteen million dollars to carry out its after-the-war program. Contribute to the Salvation Army Home Service Fund Campaign. Remember, to the Salvation Army 'A Man May Be Down, but He's Never Out.'"

CARDINAL GIBBONS
ENDORSES S. A. DRIVE

Venerable Churchman Expresses Hope That $13,000,000 Will Be Raised.

The following letter was addressed to former Governor Whitman of New York state by Cardinal Gibbons:

"Honorable and Dear Sir—I have been asked by the local Commander of the Salvation Army to address a word to you as National Chairman of the Campaign about to be launched in behalf of the above named organization. This I am happy to do, and for the reason that along with my fellow American citizens I rejoice in the splendid service which the Salvation Army rendered our soldier and sailor boys during the war. Every returning trooper is a willing witness to the efficient and generous work of the Salvation Army both at the front and in the camps at home. I am also the more happy to commend this organization because it is free from sectarian bias. The man in need of help is the object of their effort, with never a question of his creed or color.

"I trust, therefore, your efforts to raise $13,000,000 for the Salvation Army will meet with a hearty response from our generous public. Faithfully yours,

"J. CARD. GIBBONS."

"OUT OF LOVE" CLUB
UNIQUE ORGANIZATION

Members Are Girls Rescued by Salvation Army.

The "Out of Love" Club is one of the important club organizations maintained by the Salvation Army in this country. In every large city where there is a Salvation Army corps girls who have been helped back into the normal pace of a workaday world are proud of the membership in this club. Disappointed, loveless girls who do not forget kindnesses shown them in their hour of greatest need give out of love to help other girls receive the same friendliness. In a simple, quiet way, this unique idea has been maintained for over 20 years.

In every large city in the country there are girls who have needed the ministrations of the Salvation Army. After they have been helped and sent on their way again they become life members of this club if they so desire. Only girls are admitted who have given a good account of themselves for at least one month in the positions found for them by the Salvation Army after their release from a hospital or home. These girls pledge themselves to keep alive the spirit of friendliness and home which the Salvation Army has spread among them. The girls are expected to dress in a plain, simple way, and avoid in any sense of the word gaudy or tawdry clothing. Gossiping or tale bearing is tabooed. If members of the club transgress this rule they are liable to suspension for a month or longer. The "Out of Love Club" is one of the many activities that will benefit by the success of the Salvation Army Home Service Fund Campaign for $13,000,000 May 19-26.

Optimistic Thought.
It is not difficult for little minds to attain splendid situations.

That Salvation Army Smile

Several thousand veterans of the Argonne Forest recently entered New York harbor. Among them were several badly wounded Marines. One man, easily distinguished because of a coat sleeve that dangled empty at his side and a Croix de Guerre, was making his way slowly to the waiting ambulance when a Salvation Army girl approached him and offered doughnuts and coffee. "Now I know I am home," he said. "Those doughnuts helped a whole lot 'over there,' and, first crack out of the box when we land, we find more waiting for us. The best thing about the Salvation Army work out near the front line was the smile that accompanied the gift. Those girls had a knack of wrapping up every doughnut and every cup of coffee in a smile. The doughnuts were fine, but the smile—that took the place of powdered sugar." The Salvation Army Home Service Fund Campaign for $13,000,000 opens May 19, to last one week.

THE FRIENDLY TOBACCO

Horse Sense About Tobacco

Good tobacco ought to be like a well-bred hoss—all th' kick taken out but all th' sperit left in.

You see, half the secret of makin' a good hoss is in the breedin' an' half in the breakin'. Selectin' tobacco that's grown right is only half of makin' Velvet. The agein' is the other half.

Thar's only one kind of agein' that gets th' right results — Nature's own. Nature's no clock watcher. She does a job right whether it takes two years or two thousand.

So when she gets through with the fine Kentucky Burley that we put away in wooden hogsheads for two years, it's just right.

It ain't been hurried none, or short-cutted. It's a Nature-done job.

All kinds of things are packed in tobacco tins, but your good neighbor will tell you "Velvet is the real pipe tobacco." Prove it for yourself.

POULTRY NOTES

The pullets and the year-old hens are the best egg producers.

Market all cockerels not wanted as breeders at as early a date as possible.

A "chicken" is a young fowl, usually under six months of age. It becomes a "fowl" after that period.

One pound of feathers can be secured from five ordinary fowls, or from ten ducks, or from four geese.

Whole corn is the proper food for sitting hens. They should have green food, grit, and pure drinking water.

Eggs for hatching should be carefully selected, well-formed, with good shells, and kept in a temperature of 50 degrees to 60 degrees F.

The chick worth having is the chick that releases itself from the shell with vigor, life and vitality; that comes jumping, as it were, into life.

WINTER HOUSING FOR SHEEP

Barns Need Not Be Expensive, but Should Be Dry, Well Ventilated and Free From Drafts.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Equipment for raising sheep on farms need not be expensive. In mild latitudes little housing is needed, and the main need is for fencing and pastures of sufficient number and size to allow frequent changing of flocks to fresh ground to insure health. Where winters are longer and more severe buildings and sheds are necessary to furnish protection from storms, though no special provisions are needed for warmth. Dryness, good ventilation and freedom from drafts are the first requisites of buildings for sheep. Convenience in feeding and shepherding must also be held in mind in locating and planning such buildings or sheds.

Small flocks can be cared for in sections of barns having stabling or feed storage for other stock, but with a flock of, say, 100 ewes, separate buildings are desirable. The interior arrangement of these buildings should be such as to require a minimum of labor and the least possible moving of the ewes in doing the feeding and caring for them during the lambing season. A building of this type can also be utilized for fattening purchased lambs to be disposed of before lambing begins in the regular farm flock. A good supply of feed racks, grain troughs, etc., can be provided at small expense and will save labor and prevent waste of feed.

The Victim of A Mother's Folly

When a home dealer sells you a motorcycle or a bicycle, he has made certain that it is substantially built and equipped to your satisfaction. He knows the danger that may befall the rider and will not risk his reputation by selling a machine that falls below standard. His patrons are always satisfied.

On the other hand take the case of the parent who is attracted by the bicycle offered through the mail order house and who buys without seeing the qualities of the machine. The son is presented with the mail order bicycle and the inevitable occurs. The machine breaks down and the rider is probably injured in such a manner as to be crippled for life, and the machine stands mutely by in a crumpled, hopeless mass of wreckage.

MORAL:—The cheapest ride is never the safest and best.

Yes! He bought that away from here and what has he gained by it? He thought it a bargain but they double up on him.

Otters' Favorite Game.
The favorite game of otters seems to be that of sliding down hill. They climb to the top of a high snow ridge, lie flat upon the stomach, with the forefeet bent backward, and giving themselves an impulse with the hind legs, glide down the hill head foremost. In summer they select a sloping river bank which has a clayey soil, and where the water at its base is of considerable depth. Climbing this bank, they start from the top, slip swiftly over the sloping ground, and plunge into the water.

Stamping Out Illiteracy

The actual percentage of illiterates within the draft age was 24.6. In other words, one out of every four could neither read nor write. Americans have prided themselves on their educational system, but the draft showed that no country had such a staggering percentage of aliens and illiterates. Being able neither to read nor write, these illiterates had little or no opportunity to know and appreciate American principles, ideals or government.

Through the mammoth school system that has been established overseas, the War Department is doing its part to stamp out this illiteracy. Of an army of approximately one and a quarter million young men in France on April 15, 210,000 had been enrolled in the army schools, 130,000 of them in the elementary school where they were being taught the rudiments. More than 50,000 who had been taught the elementary principles were in divisional or secondary schools.

Over here, Secretary of the Interior Lane had a bill before the last Congress proposing compulsory instruction of all under 24 in the English language and other branches, including American ideals and government. It died on the calendar because of the Republican filibuster in the last days of Congress. An awakened public will doubtless demand the enactment of Secretary Lane's bill or some similar measure by the new Congress.

Several of the Republican Senators were sharp enough not to be caught by Senator Lodge's request that they refrain from committing themselves on the league of nations until they could all talk over the revised draft at a party conference. Incidentally the G. O. P. leaders felt that it was perfectly all right to ask the Senators to refrain from discussion until they said the word, but it was all wrong for the President a few weeks ago to ask members of Congress to refrain from public discussion until after he had had opportunity to go over the provisions of the draft with them.

Senator Curtis, Republican "whip" in the Senate is quoted as disclaiming an intention on the part of his Republican colleagues to make a partisan issue of the league of nations. That will be news to Senator Lodge and the thirty-nine "robins" who dragged the question into politics three months ago.

Former Senator Jonathan Bourne, Jr., is still spending his time and some one's money in issuing statements that embarrass the leaders of his party. Republican Senators ought to hire an editor for his special benefit, or put him under a board of censorship.

A recent canvass by the Department of Labor shows a further decrease in the number of unemployed in the country. The country is coming through the reconstruction period in fine style and proving that a large part of the unemployment problem was psychological.

"Progressives" in Congress needn't feel that they must retrograde by joining the Republican majority. They always have the opportunity to continue progressing by co-operating with the Democrats.

The amendments to the League of Nations covenant have stripped the Republican senatorial "round robin" of its tail feathers.

There have been at least three sets of opinions among Republicans in respect to the league of nations. Some wanted no league, others favored half a league, and a third group—the largest of all—favored the league advocated by President Wilson. Those in the last category are now not only the most numerous, but also the most insistent. The others have become singularly still and inconspicuous.

Republicans Have Own Troubles Now

After several futile attempts to embarrass and discredit President Wilson and the Democratic Administration, Republican leaders in Congress are now facing a situation that is full of disquiet and difficulties for themselves. They are so engrossed in finding a way out of their present troubles that they will no longer have so much time to devote to criticism of the President.

The reaction which followed senatorial attacks on the league of nations gave Republicans a shock and a fright. They have begun to back away. The wisest are silent. None is brave enough to continue the opposition. The "round robin" is as dead as "Cock Robin." Beautiful pictorial imitations of the Declaration of Independence, printed and circulated at great expense to create sentiment against the league, have been withdrawn. Practically all of the literature now in circulation to foster hostility to a league is anonymous. The daily statements from Republican Senators who employed press agents to herald their opposition to a league and assail the President are growing fewer and feebler.

There is new cause for alarm in the relations between the "Progressives" and the Old Guard. Congressmen representing districts where "Progressive" sentiment is powerful and assertive are receiving warnings against their affiliating with the "standpatters." There was fear of a clash when Senators Lodge, Smoot, and Penrose organized the Senate along reactionary lines.

Harmony Not in Sight

When Congress adjourned, "Progressives" and members of the Old Guard were fraternizing Senator Penrose and Senator La Follette, for instance, rode down from the Capitol in the former's big red automobile after the gavel fell. It was contended that the opposition to Senator Penrose as chairman of the Finance Committee had ceased. Everything seemed lovely. But then came the murmurings from the folks "back home." "Progressive" Senators were cautioned to beware of the "standpatters." Gifford Pinchot raised a hue and cry against Penrose and all his works and poms. Congressman Longworth gave aid and comfort to the fight against the reactionaries on the various committees in the House of Representatives.

But it appears that these warnings and protests are fruitless. The Old Guard will organize the Senate and dominate the Sixty-sixth Congress. Most of the "Progressives" realize that their affiliation with the "standpatters" will condemn them at home. But to remain aloof from the Old Guard will deprive the "Progressives" of power and prestige and patronage. The promises of chairmanships and other preferments are very tempting. At the outset the fight made by Pinchot and other "Progressives" was directed solely at Penrose. Many Republicans who cannot be accurately catalogued as "Progressives" dislike his leadership. They fear that in following in his footsteps they may be taken far from their constituents and be lost. The latest development of this campaign against Penrose is a proposal to ask Senators Lodge, Smoot and their "standpat" associates for a statement of future policies. This may result in a sort of questionnaire on the presidential campaign. It is the hope of the authors of this scheme that it will be painful to this coterie of the Old Guard and embarrass them in the Republican caucus which will formulate policies and measures to guide the party during the next session of Congress.

Republicans Now Responsible.

In the last Congress the Republicans could sit in judgment on Democratic activities. Their responsibility was only that of a minority. They could obstruct and criticize and discredit almost as much as they chose so long as they gave a fair impression of patriotism. So they made the most of their opportunities. They loudly demanded a committee on the conduct of the war. Then they urged a "war cabinet." Next they pleaded for a "secretary of aircraft." Then in turn they wanted a "minister of munitions" and a "minister of transportation." All these proposals, it was represented, were to "help the President." But the speeches made in support of them were filled with animosity and partisanship.

None of these additional agencies was established, and yet the war was won. America received a large share of the credit for ending fighting that was costing millions of lives. American casualties were relatively few. The management of all the departments that put and maintained 1,000,000 men in the army and navy incomparably better than any other in history. Not only the people of the United States, but those of all the other countries in the war—more particularly Germany—knew that.

Finally, after unproductive endeavors to hamper the President in conducting the war, Republican leaders in Congress began to hamper him in concluding peace. They opposed a league of nations and gave aid and comfort to those belligerents which favored the old system of using victory as a means of spoliation. But the people of Europe and the people of the United States have compelled acceptance of President Wilson's plans here and abroad.

Now that responsibility for legislation in a critical period of the country's history is placed on their own shoulders, Republicans in Congress will find that it is easier to carp than to construct. They have made many fair promises to business, to labor, to the farmer and to the soldiers. They may perform as fully as they have promised, but it is a poor augury to see them now, on the eve of a new Congress, quarreling over the few crumbs of patronage and control and not giving a thought, seemingly, to great problems which the country must solve at the outset of a new era.

REPUBLICANS LAUD OUR ARMY IN FRANCE

When Republicans of the House of Military Affairs Committee, who returned from France made a report to Congress on conditions with the A. E. F., it was commendatory of the way the war was conducted.

Although they found there had been some mistakes, they excused them after ascertaining the tremendous efforts that were put forth in anticipating of the war of long duration.

Representative Daniel E. Anthony Jr. of Kansas, ranking Republican on the committee, said they studied the American strategy and plan of operations from the beginning. "They worked out," he declared, "exactly as planned."

"It is hard to criticize," Mr. Anthony declared, "when you consider that they were working for an army of 5,000,000 men this year, and that is what they intended to have and would have had if the fighting had continued."

Bureau of Employment for Returning Soldiers

The following citizens have been appointed to organize themselves into a cooperation employment agency in the interest of Bedford County's returning soldiers and war-workers. Their first meeting will be held in Hon. J. H. Jordan's office at 8 o'clock Monday evening: J. Frank Russell, Captain Fred Metzger; Hon. J. H. Jordan; John B. McLaughlin; William S. Reed; H. B. Cessna; Sergt. Richard D. Davis.

The Bayou Bridge

By NELLIE CRAVIE GILMORE

(Copyright, 1918, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

With head bent and lips tightly compressed, Matilda hurried swiftly past the camp, down a steep clay road and on to the bayou bridge that led to rural delivery box No. 33, on the other side.

It was a gusty, disagreeable day. At intervals, the rain whipped down in sheets, alternately slackening to a sticky, penetrating drizzle. The wind tore at the willow branches that dipped into the stream, and the waters of the bayou writhed under its violence.

Half way across the bridge an aggressive gust suddenly seized the girl's umbrella and flung it viciously into the turbulent black water. Turning involuntarily, with a futile grasp at the flying parachute, Matilda abruptly twisted her foot sideways, catching the heel of her boot in a crack between the planks. Just then an angry cloudburst broke relentlessly upon the unprotected head of the hapless prisoner, and with hands tightly gripping the railing of the bridge, she waited, with all the patience she could command, for its fury to subside.

Presently the wind ceased, the rain shrank back into the clouds, and the lead of the sky broke up in patches of blue and silver. With renewed hope, Matilda scanned the road from east to west. And then, glory of glories! a man was just heaving into view on the brow of the hill opposite. She watched him eagerly, thankfully. But as he came nearer, near enough for her to recognize the broad, straight shoulders and the massive head under the dripping Panama, her eyes widened and the blood began to pound in her throat and temples. Mallory Cheatham—the very last person on earth she wanted to encounter!

In her hand was the still unopened letter, addressed to him. It contained only a few lines, but it had taken her half the night to make up her mind what to say, and the other half how to say it. She had refused him, firmly and finally.

When he was almost up to her, Matilda's face grew scarlet with blushes. Held like a criminal in the pillory, she returned his look of consternation with one of belligerent silence.

After Cheatham comprehended the situation, a spile struggled through his astonishment.

"I was beginning to grow impatient of your answer, dear."

"Do get me out of this!" she interrupted petulantly, flinching with pain as she gave her foot an impatient twist.

Full of solicitude, Cheatham stooped, and with a few deft manipulations, succeeded in loosening the imprisoned heel.

"And now," said he, rising and looking ardently down into Matilda's decidedly cross face, "don't I deserve something for that?" He eyed the letter covetously.

But the girl said nothing, and she did not yield up the letter, either.

"It's addressed to me, isn't it?" urged Cheatham in a crestfallen tone.

"Yes, but—Oh!" Just at that juncture an accommodating zephyr lifted the envelope from her fingers and tossed it out on the water, where a still more accommodating current bore it swiftly into the eddies.

Cheatham thrust his hands into his pockets and stood staring at her, mingled curiosity and alarm showing in his good-looking face.

"You—you've changed your mind," he said at last, very gravely, after his recent exuberance.

The guilty crimson flashed over Matilda's face, and without a word she turned and began to retrace her steps back toward the camp.

As they came in sight of the campers' tents, Cheatham paused and looked sternly into the face of the girl at his side.

"Mallory!" The exclamation was sharp, indignant, but Matilda's eyes lifted their sober curtains long enough to emit a lambent little flash that was nothing if not contradictory.

"If you care to come into the camp until I can change these rags," she said demurely, "I think—I think we can talk better."

Cheatham divested himself of his raincoat and left it on a bench in the yard. Inside he roamed about the little "reception parlor" of the tent, waiting, like a caged lion, for the girl to make her appearance.

She came in at last, crowned in some diaphanous white thing that Cheatham thought made her look exactly like a star floating in a gauzy silver cloud. She was smiling, and her eyes, as he held them in his own, were soft and dreamy with their subtle confession.

Cheatham reached forth eager arms to draw her into them, but the apologetic entrance of an ebony-faced individual caused him to reconsider for a moment.

"I beg pardon, but somebody wish to speak to Miss Driscoll on de 'phone."

"Be good enough," said Cheatham, "to tell the gentleman that Miss Driscoll is—engaged."

When the door had been closed, humbly and obsequiously, he turned to Matilda for corroboration.

The next minute he was holding the white cloud against his breast, and the star seemed to have no objection to its new firmament.

A SOIL FERTILITY PROPHECY

Editor Collingwood of the Rural New Yorker says:

"Gasoline leaves no organic matter behind it. We have come to the time, and we are rapidly going further into it when there will be practically no stable manure for people to buy and put on their ground. And then people will suddenly wake and realize that all these years they have been giving to stable manure a value it did not carry, and that, with fertilizers properly handled and with cover crops, they will be able to get the same results with less labor, with more profit and with far greater satisfaction."

OUR DWINDLING MEAT SUPPLY

You have no doubt become accustomed to meatless days, but secretly you are probably waiting and hoping for the day when you can again eat a good steak without feeling unpatriotic.

But do you realize that the average meat supply per individual, even before the war, had fallen off nearly one-fourth since 1900? To be sure, each of us had nearly as much meat to eat in 1917 as in 1900, but this was secured at the expense of our European neighbors. Our exports practically ceased; we had no surplus left to send abroad.

But the question is, "Toward what are we headed?" Shall we have to continue to reduce our meat ration until eventually we come to the plan of cereal-eating China? This is the natural trend in every highly populated country. Where people and live stock must compete for the same grain, live stock is pretty apt to get left.

But there is no real need for permanent meat shortage in America. Our farm and particularly our pastures are not producing anything like full capacity. Following the close of the war fertilizer will undoubtedly be used more extensively than ever before to boost live stock production. Many live stock farms could actually double their carrying capacity by making use of commercial fertilizer. "Fertilizer to Keep More Live Stock" bids fair to be a popular slogan on the American live-stock farm.

THE IRISH POTATO THE FOOD OF THE PEOPLE

The Irish potato is a staple of American diet. Enough potatoes were consumed in the United States in 1915 to allow one eight-ounce potato a day throughout the whole year for each man, woman and child.

Truly, the potato is the food of the people. The portion of the American meal made up by this vegetable, alone, consumes over 300,000,000 bushels annually.

Intensive methods make it possible to grow crops yielding from 250 to 400 bushels per acre, and at the same time to decrease the cost of raising each bushel. The big expense in potato growing comes in the preparation of the land, the purchase of the seed and the attention given the crop throughout the season. But it costs no more to prepare ground, plant, cultivate and spray a 300-bushel crop than it does a 150-bushel crop. Harvesting will cost more, but the big overhead expenses are practically the same. Obviously the thing to do is to insure large yields by supplying an abundance of available plant food that will give the crop a good start and force it to early maturity.

Fertilizers should be applied at the time of planting, and in order to make certain that this material may be on hand when needed it is especially important to order early this year.

The man who has his fertilizer stored in his own barn is the only one who can be certain of a supply when needed. A big potato crop will be needed next year whether peace comes or not.

WHY FOOD PRICES ARE INCREASING

"During the last fifty or seventy-five years (principally since 1840), while the large cities in this country and Europe have been growing, the established agricultural areas that produced food were supplemented by the opening up of new lands in the middle West, Canada, Brazil, Argentina, South and Central Africa, Australia and Siberia.

"Food products, chiefly grains and meats, were produced on virgin, unfertilized lands. Emigrant labor was employed and subsequently there was cheap railroad and steamship transportation, so until recently the people in cities have been fed on food produced and sold at a price which did not take into consideration the cost of production and the value of plant food contained in crops which must be returned to the soil to maintain productivity."—Report of the Food Problem Committee, the Merchants' Association of New York.

POULTRY

TIME TO FEED YOUNG CHICKS

Mashes Mixed With Milk Are of Considerable Value in Giving Youngsters Good Start.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Young chicks may be fed any time after they are thirty-six to forty-eight hours old whether they are with a hen or in a brooder. Some good feeds for the first feeding are moistened hard-boiled eggs, Johnnycake, stale bread, oatmeal or rolled oats, which may be fed separately or in combination. Mash mixed with milk are of considerable value in giving the chicks a good start. The mixture should be fed in a crumbly mass and not in a sloppy condition. Johnnycake composed of the following ingredients in the proportion named is a very good feed for young chicks: One dozen infertile eggs or one pound of sifted beef scraps to ten pounds of cornmeal; add enough milk to make a pasty mash and one tablespoonful of baking soda and bake until done. Dry bread crumbs may be mixed with hard-boiled eggs, making about one-fourth of the mixture eggs or rolled oats may be used in place of bread crumbs.

It is a good plan to give these feeds about five times daily for the first week, then gradually substitute for one or two of these feeds a mixture of finely cracked grains of equal parts by weight of cracked wheat and finely cracked corn and pinhead oatmeal or hulled oats, to which about 5 per cent of cracked peas or broken rice and 2 per cent of charcoal or miller or rape seed may be added. A commercial chick feed may be substituted if desired. This ration may be fed until the chicks are two weeks old, when they should be placed on grain and a dry or wet mash mixture.

Young chickens should be fed from three to five times daily, but if care is given not to overfeed chicks will grow faster when fed five times per day. Young chicks should be fed not more than barely enough to satisfy their appetites and to keep them ex-

George Deaner, of Wyan comes across with the first snake story of the season with not much authentic background. He has just killed the biggest chicken snake he ever saw or ever heard tell of. When he saw it he took his hoe and cut it in two then took it by the tail and shook out nine whole hen's eggs, a white door knob which his wife had been using as a nest egg and three two-day old chicks. The community takes in the eggs, chicken and size of the snake all right, but on the door knob part of the story they eyed him very closely. The fact that George had the door knob in his pocket didn't help matters much.

A young man came to the court house the other day for a license. He said his intended bride was as sweet as sugar and since he had the sand to propose the combination will be pretty well neutralized.

access to free range, as too much feed under such conditions is apt to cause leg weakness.

GRIT NECESSARY FOR FOWLS

Hopper Feeding Saves Labor and Furnishes Desirable Supplementary Feed for Hens.

Ground feeds are necessary for most efficient digestion in poultry. Hopper feeding saves labor and furnishes the necessary supplementary feed at all times. There is no danger of poultry overeating on ground feeds fed dry in a hopper. The University of Missouri college of agriculture is recommending the hopper as a labor saver in the poultry yard.

Limestone grit or oyster shell is also necessary for laying hens. A laying hen requires large quantities of shell-making material. Nearly all of this must come from the grit and shell she eats. It is poor economy not to keep a liberal supply accessible. One extra egg a year will pay the bill. It returns the money invested a hundred fold.

Chickens raised on range can be produced much more economically than those kept closely confined around the farm buildings. Not only is less feed required, but the danger from disease is reduced. The edge of the cornfield makes an ideal poultry range. Chickens grow best on plowed ground and the corn furnishes shade, which is essential during the summer. Under such conditions, a pound of chicken can be produced from three to four pounds of grain.

POULTRY NOTES

Skim milk is good for the chickens.

Pumpkin is of value in the cold weather poultry ration.

Wheat, oats and corn are good grains to feed the laying hen.

Ducks are among the most profitable of all domesticated fowls.

Parent turkeys should be full grown and mature. If the gobler is related to the hens, get a new one.

TUBERCULOSIS OF HOG HERD

Sanitary Lot and Clean Feed Are Enemies of This Disease—Slow in Its Development.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Tuberculosis is rapidly increasing among hogs in the United States, and every owner of swine should be on his guard against the introduction of this serious malady upon his premises. Unlike hog cholera this disease is insidious in its attack and slow in its development, so that it may be present for months in a herd without exciting the least suspicion of the owner, and will be revealed to him only at the time of slaughter. Until recent years tuberculosis has been looked upon as of uncommon occurrence and only of importance from a meat-inspection standpoint; but today it must be recognized as a serious menace to the owner of hogs, and especially to the one who allows his hogs to run with cattle that

Hawaiian Island Group.

There are 12 main islands in the Hawaiian group, all classed as United States territory. The total area is 8,440 square miles. The inhabited islands number eight—Hawaii, Maui, Kahoolawe, Lanai, Molokai, Oahu, Maui and Niihau. In addition there are numerous small islands in the chain which are valuable for their gun- deposits and shark fishing grounds, but which are not inhabited.

have not been proved to be free of tuberculosis, or who feeds them upon nonsterilized products as part of their ration. As tuberculosis of hogs is chiefly contracted through eating infected feed, the importance of this statement is obvious.

Tuberculosis of hogs is closely associated with the same disease in cattle, the reason being apparent when one considers the close relations of these two species of animals upon nearly every farm. Tuberculous cattle may scatter great numbers of tubercle bacilli with their excrement; cows that are tuberculous may produce contaminated milk that is subsequently fed to pigs; and carcasses of cattle that have died from tuberculosis are sometimes eaten by hogs.

The feeding of hogs upon creamery refuse is also a very frequent source of infection. In this way the milk of a single cow with a tuberculous udder, sent to a public creamery, may spread the disease to a number of hogs, and may also infect many farms that have never previously been contaminated with tuberculosis.

An equally dangerous source of infection is likewise observed in the methods which obtain among some of the small country slaughter houses. It is not unusual for these houses to get rid of their blood, intestines, viscera, and other inedible parts by feeding them to hogs, a herd of which is usually kept on the premises. This custom perpetuates the infectious principle of various contagious and parasitic diseases, particularly tuberculosis.

Hogs are also susceptible to tuberculous infection from infected persons and poultry, but these sources are unoubtedly of far less moment to the hog owner than those existing in a herd of tuberculous cattle.

Intestinal worms, lung worms, and skin parasites also levy a burdensome tax upon the profits of hog raising. Absolute cleanliness will be found valuable in preventing and controlling these parasitic troubles, as well as the more serious diseases—hog cholera and tuberculosis.

LABOR REQUIRED BY SHEEP

While Continuous It Is Not Heavy—Can Well Be Performed by Boy Incapable of Hard Work.

While the labor required by sheep raising is continuous, it is not heavy, and if properly supervised and made interesting by financial return can well be performed by boys incapable of other kinds of farm work. This fact should be given consideration in many sections where farm labor is scarce.

IMPORTANCE OF FARM TEAMS

Unless Animals Are Properly Cared For and Fed They Are Unfit for Hard Work.

The teams are far more important in war farming than is generally believed. Unless the teams are properly fed and cared for they will not be able to do good work. Every farmer should take pains to care for his teams and get them in the best possible condition.

Weekly Health Talks

Where Most Sickness Begins and Ends

BY FRANKLIN DUANE, M. D.

It can be said broadly that most human ills begin in the stomach and end in the stomach. Good digestion means good health, and poor digestion means bad health. The minute your stomach fails to properly dispose of the food you eat, troubles begin to crop out in various forms. Indigestion and dyspepsia are the commonest forms, but thin, impure blood, headaches, backaches, pimples, blotches, dizziness, belching, coated tongue, weakness, poor appetite, sleeplessness, coughs, colds and bronchitis are almost as common. There is but one way to have good health, and that is to put and keep your stomach in good order. This is easy to do if you take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is a wonderful tonic and blood purifier, and is so safe to take, for it is made of roots and herbs. Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., stands behind this standard medicine, and it is good to know that a distinguished physician is proud to have his name identified with it. When you take Golden Medical Discovery, you are getting the benefit of the experience of a doctor whose reputation goes all around the earth. Still more, you get a temperance medicine that contains not a drop of alcohol or narcotic of any kind. Long ago Dr. Pierce combined certain valuable vegetable ingredients—without the use of alcohol—so that these remedies always have been strictly temperance medicines. If piles are torturing you, get and use Pierce's Anodyne Pile Ointment. The quick relief it gives is hard to believe until you try it. If constipated, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be taken while using Anodyne Pile Ointment. Few indeed are the cases which these splendid remedies will not relieve and usually overcome. They are so good that nearly every drug store has them for sale.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By REV. P. E. FITZWATER, D. D., Teacher of English Bible in the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)

LESSON FOR JUNE 1.

FAITH, WHAT IT IS AND WHAT IT DOES.

LESSON TEXTS—Hebrews 11:1-40; 12:1, 2.

GOLDEN TEXT—Ye believe in God, believe in me.—John 14:1.

ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—Matt. 8:5-13; Mark 2:1-12; Rom. 1:13-17; 3:21-30; 5:1; 1 John 5:4.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Story of a Man Who Believed in Jesus. (John 9:1-38.)

TUNING TOPIC—Heroes of Faith.

INTERMEDIATE TOPIC—The Victory of Faith.

SENIOR AND ADULT TOPIC—The Place of Faith in Religious Life.

In Hebrews, chapters 1-10 the grounds of faith are clearly set forth. In this lesson its nature and glorious triumphs are displayed.

1. The Nature of Faith (11:1-3).

1. Faith is the eye of the soul, enabling it to see the invisible (v. 1). It is not merely intellectual assent to that which commends itself as being reasonable, but it is the soul's attitude toward God.

2. Faith seizes the things of the future and lives and walks in their power in the present (v. 1).

3. It enabled the "elders" to obtain a good report (v. 2). It made God's promises so living and real to them that it became the dominant force in their lives.

4. Faith enables us to understand how the worlds were made (v. 3). No man was present when God made the worlds, so the foundation for our knowledge is the Word of God. The one who has faith wholly believes that Word.

II. The Triumphant Victories of Faith (11:4-38).

1. Faith of the antediluvian saints (vv. 4-7). As representative of this period three men are pointed out: (a) Abel (v. 4), who displayed his faith in his worship. He took his place before God as a sinner and offered a bloody sacrifice, thereby showing that he looked forward to Christ's atonement, which is substitutionary—life for a life. (b) Enoch, who displayed his faith in his walk in fellowship with God (v. 5). (c) Noah, who by faith stood loyal to God in a time of universal apostasy and wickedness (v. 7). Noah's task was a stupendous and difficult one. He executed it in the face of many a sneer and taunt, but his faith carried him through, securing salvation for himself and his family.

2. Faith of the Hebrew saints (vv. 8-38). (a) Abraham (vv. 8-10, 17-19). Abraham went out not knowing whither he went, but he knew that the Lord had spoken and that was enough. By faith he offered up Isaac, believing that God was able to raise him up from the dead and fulfill his promise that in Isaac the promised seed should obtain. (b) Sarah through faith received strength to conceive seed when she was old, counting him faithful who had promised (vv. 11, 12). (c) Jacob by faith pronounced a prophecy concerning Joseph's sons (v. 21). By faith he penetrated the unseen and pronounced destinies which should be experienced by them both. (d) Joseph by faith foresaw the entrance of his people into the promised land and made them swear to carry his bones there for burial, for even his body must not be left behind in the land of judgment and death (v. 22). (e) Moses (vv. 23-25). Faith in the hearts of his parents caused them to disregard the king's decree. Faith caused him to turn his back upon the honors of Egypt and identify himself with his enslaved brethren.

(f) Faith's Grand Exemplar (12:1, 2).

Christ taking upon himself human nature and passing through the trials of life to a triumphant goal is the supreme example for us. Those who fix their eyes upon him will (1) lay aside every weight. To run with success all burdens must be cast off. Things which may not be sinful in themselves, if they impede our progress must be laid aside. (2) Lay aside the sin which doth so easily beset us. (3) Run with patience the race set before us. (4) Looking unto Jesus. Our eyes must be steadfastly fixed upon him. Having him as our example we will endure the cross. To follow Jesus means suffering and trials.

Love as a Word.

Love, even as a word only, must stand alone. It is one of the great monosyllables of our great language—Love. It is the invisible gravitation of life. With its invisible cords, viewless but potent, it draws hearts together over eternal spaces, and holds them together in an indissoluble bond in Time and Eternity.

The Wonder of It!

"Lord, when I look on my own life it seems thou hast fed me so carefully, so tenderly, that thou canst have attended to no one else. But, when I see how wonderfully thou hast led the world, and are leading it, I am amazed that thou hast had time to attend to such as I!"—St. Augustine.

Why Man Falls.

Man could not fall so low were he not so great. It is the abused God in a man that turns him into a devil.

SALVATION ARMY

VALIANT IN WAR

Having Served Gloriously in the Trenches, Is Coming Back
From Overseas for Peace
Time Activities.

ASKS HOME SERVICE FUND.

National Campaign to Replenish Resources Depleted by Long and Direct Contact Services With Our Boys Scheduled for May 19-26.

New York (Special).—Like the 2,000,000 American boys whom it served so gloriously in the trenches of France, the Salvation Army is coming back from overseas, ready to put aside its khaki uniform of war service, don again the "Civvies" and embark once more on its normal peace time activities.

And, just like those doughboys, the Salvation Army has come out of the war victorious and with citations for bravery, decorations for gallantry under fire and golden chevrons indicative of honorably won wounds on its arm. The victory which the Salvation Army has won is a victory over the obstacles that lay before it in its purpose of efficient service of the fighters of Pershing's army. Its citations are the thanks, cheers and prayers of 2,000,000 doughboys. Its wound stripes are rightfully golden of hue, for they typify the unselfish way in which the Army threw all its resources—financial, spiritual and moral—into the effort to help the American soldiers in France.

Now the Army is asking the people of America to give it concrete evidence of the gratitude which has been so loudly, and so willingly expressed.
From May 19 to 26 the Salvation Army will conduct in the United States a campaign to raise $13,000,000 for its Home Service Fund. The money is needed both to recoup the fortunes of the Army, shattered by its long service of the soldier and to permit it to carry on the work it has always done on the larger scale which the public now demands. Raising the money by this means, the Salvation Army explains, will eliminate, perhaps permanently, the necessity for the ceaseless solicitation of funds which has been a bug-bear to the Army and the public alike.
It will permit the workers of the Army, who, forced to devote more than half their time to gathering money, were in consequence only half efficient in their evangelistic and social service work, to devote all their time in future to the duties for which they have been trained.

GOOD CARE FOR SETTING HEN

Attention Given Fowl Plays Important Part on Number and Condition of Chicks.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The kind of care and attention given a setting hen during the process of hatching eggs plays an important part on the number and condition of the chicks when hatched. See that the hens are made comfortable on the nest, allow them to come off only once a day to receive feed and water.

If there are any that do not desire to come off themselves, they should be taken off. Hens usually return to their nests before there is any danger of the eggs chilling, but if they do not go back in half an hour in ordinary weather, they should be put on the nest. Where a large number of sitters are kept in one room it is advisable to let them off in groups of from four to six at a time. The eggs and nests should be examined and cleaned, removing all broken eggs and washing those that are soiled; in the latter case the soiled nesting material should be removed and clean straw added. Nests containing broken eggs that the hen is allowed to sit on soon become infested with mites and lice, which cause the hens to become uneasy and leave the nest, often causing the loss of valuable sittings of eggs.

In mite-infested nests, the hen, if fastened in, will often be found standing over rather than sitting on the eggs.
Many eggs that are laid in the late winter and early spring are infertile.
For this reason it is advisable to set several hens at the same time. After the eggs have been under the hens from five to seven days, the time depending somewhat on the color and thickness of the shells—white-shelled eggs being easier to test than those having brown shells—they should be tested, the infertile eggs and dead germs removed, and the fertile eggs put back under the hen. In this way it is often possible to put all the eggs that several hens originally started to sit on under fewer hens and reset the others. For example, 80 eggs are set under three hens at the same time, ten under each. At the end of seven days we find on testing the eggs from all the hens that ten are infertile, which leaves us 20 eggs to reset, which we do by putting them under two hens, and have the remaining hen sit over again after she has set only seven days. In this way considerable time can be saved in one's hatching operations.

A Good Type to Select for Laying.

Heat ALL Your House

THROUGH ONE REGISTER

Yes, it's just as possible in your home as it has been in fifty thousand others. You, too, may have every room comfortable with balmy healthful heat, reaching every corner by Nature's method of circulation—and all through only one register! It isn't necessary to clutter up your house with pipes, overheat your cellar and incur big bills —not when you can get the

CALORIC FURNACE

The Original Patented Pipeless Furnace

It can be set up in a day, without inconvenience to you, and will make your home so comfortable in the severest winter weather you will be well repaid.

Your house will be uniformly warm; your cellar will be just right for the storage of fruits and vegetables. Your fuel bill will be less than with stoves that heat only a part of your house.

HERE ARE THE REASONS

The Caloric is the Original Patented Pipeless Furnace—the result of the study of competent engineers to solve the heating problem in the most satisfactory way. That they have succeeded is proved by the fact that the number of Calorics sold on an absolute guarantee of satisfaction is three times greater than any other pipeless furnace.

The cause of this satisfaction lies in the patented and exclusive principles that distinguish the Caloric from all others. It is not a pipe furnace provided with an extra casing, but a complete revolution in furnace building designed exclusively for pipeless heating.

Come In And See Us

We will show you what these principles are, and you will then see what Caloric quality means, why it always succeeds and why imitations cannot accomplish the same results. Then you will be in no danger of buying an inferior article, with all its disappointment in later months.

Get a copy of the book "Progress," which tells the fact about pipeless heating. If you can't come in, write for it.

Reply From Saxton Citizens

Saxton, Pa. May 20, 1919

The Gazette Publishing Co.,
Bedford, Pa.

Gentlemen: We hear the Everett Press is giving you hark for the article in the Gazette two weeks ago in exposing the over zealous non-paying tax payers of the county advocating bonding the county for Road purposes. We thank you for the article which expresses a tendency on your part to guard the already overburdened tax payers of the county. While we believe in the forward movement both in school and roads, let us be alert, lest our zeal will eat us up.

"Burdened."

Our Reply

We thank these citizens for their comment. So far as the Everett Press is concerned we don't care for that. The Everett Press is part and parcel to the crooked work being done here. Last Friday night after the article came out in the Gazette Clegg of the Press was in conference with Harry James and Lester Karns, the Bedford County Road Superintendent, till late at night. The reply in the Everett Press was fixed up in Harry James' office then. James and Karns and Clegg are behind Bradley and Layton to do these tricks. The Everett Press was so skeptical of the effect the proposition would have in the rest of the county, especially in Monroe, Southampton, Monroe, West Providence and Colerain that it printed the resolution a week or two before as being for $2,000 appropriation instead of $200,000, the actual amount appropriated by the County. This was an intentional error. They made a great stir about a typographical error which should have been "h" instead of "r" and considered that greater in effect than one intentional error to deceive the public of $195,000. Clegg is behind the whole malevolent scheme. He is party to it.

National Committee To Plan Campaign

Washington, D. C. Announcement of the detailed program of the two day's meeting of the Democratic National Committee in the Congress Hotel, Chicago, May 28 and 29, was made at the Committee's headquarters here. The Committee is to assemble in response to a call issued several days ago by Chairman Homer S. Cummings.

At this meeting there will be present for the first time members of the new Woman's Associate National Committee, which represents women voters in all the States of the Union. Two members of the Cabinet—Secretary of the Treasury Glass and Attorney General Palmer, who are National Committeemen from Virginia and Pennsylvania, respectively—will also attend the meeting and speak at the final session.

The purpose of the meeting in addition to the transaction of important business, is to form a compact, interlocking, co-ordinating organization for the campaign of 1920. The Woman's Associate National Committee will have a large part in marshaling women voters hereafter, and will adopt plans of cooperation with the National Committee. Besides members of the National Committee and the Woman's Associate Committee, there will be present chairmen, secretaries and publicity directors of State organizations. They will participate in the discussion and formulation of campaign plans.

Mrs. George Bass, of Illinois, chairman of the Woman's Bureau of the Democratic National Committee will preside at the session at which the Committee's plans for organization among women will be considered. Discussion of woman's place and part in the Democratic organization will be conducted by well-known leaders. These are: Mrs. Alexander Thompson, of Oregon; Mrs. John Sherman Crosby, of New York; Mrs. Henry Sherlock, of Montana; Mrs. Bettie White, of Arizona; Mrs. William R. Battagall, of Maine; Miss Florence F. Allen, of Ohio; Mrs. Gertrude A. Lee, of Colorado, and Miss Mary Foy of California.

Banquet to Women.

The social side of the meeting will be furnished by a banquet to the women on the evening of May 28 at which Mrs. George Bass will be toastmaster. Chairman Cummings will deliver the address of welcome to the committee women and guests. Bainbridge Colby, of New York, former Progressive leader, will speak at the dinner. Mrs. Pattie Ruffner Jacobs, of Alabama, will offer greetings from the South. Miss Caroline Rutz-Rees, of Connecticut, will speak for New England; Mrs. Peter Oleson, of Minnesota, will tell of conditions in her State; Miss Mary E. Foy, of California will report for the Pacific Coast; and Mrs. Antionette Funk, of Illinois, will give an account of "Progressive Pledges and Democratic Performance."

Treasurer W. W. Marsh, of the Committee will make a financial statement at the session the forenoon of May 29. Members of State organizations will exchange views and shape plans at a session of the Committee on the afternoon of May 29. W. W. Farley, of New York, will preside. There will be a general discussion of the question whether State Committees should maintain permanent headquarters after an address on the subject by W. W. Durbin, chairman of the Ohio State Central Committee. At the same session Frederick Van Nuy, chairman of the Indiana State Central Committee will address the meeting on "Practical Organization Methods." William R. Wallace, chairman of the Utah Central Committee, on "Western Democracy." Committee on "Western Democracy." W. D. Jamieson, director of finance of the National Committee, on the "Work of the Finance Department"; W. R. Hollister, executive secretary of the National Committee on "General Headquarters and Organization of Work"; Wm. J. Cochran, director of publicity of the National Committee, on "Practical Publicity." and William R. Pattangall representing the Maine State Central Committee on "Utilizing a Speaker's Bureau to the Best Advantage."

The meeting will close with a dinner at which Committeemen Charles Roosenstein of Illinois, will preside. Chairman Cummings, Secretary Glass and Attorney General Palmer will speak at this gathering.

WHEN THE SOIL FAILS US.

Not enough farmers realize they have two accounts of wealth, one the cash account at the bank, the other the soil the yown. A monthly statement from the bank assures us of our standing there should we fail to keep our checking account straight, but there is no statement that our soil and reap a liberal harvest while it is made in a mute appeal for treatment better than we are giving it. Too many of us fail to recognize, much less heed this appeal. True, when production falls so low that we can scarcely grow white beans, we suddenly tumble to the fact that our soil's fertility has left us, but too few of us are able to discern this fact early enough in the game to maintain fertility while it is easy to do it.

There is one way, and only one way to maintain the fertility of our soil and reap a liberal harvest while doing it. That is by keeping livestock and practicing a livestock and grain raising system of farming. There are many farms in nearly every community that are more productive now than they were 50 years ago. The growing of livestock, keeping so much alfalfa or clover and alternating with grain growing, are what have increased the fertility. There is much room for serious consideration here; our soil will fail us under any other system of culture.

War Expenditures Total 21 Million

The expenditures of the United States Government during the war period were estimated today by Gen. March, Chief of Staff of the Army at $23,363,000,000.

From this total $2,069,000,000 was deducted as approximately the normal expenses of the Government for the period.

With this deduction, the actual war expenditures are estimated at $21,294,000,000 of which the Army and the War Department spent roughly, $14,000,000,000 or two thirds the total outlay.

Chicks May Eat Shavings In Brooder House

The use of such litter as shavings cut excelsior and sawdust in the brooder house is not advised if cut hay or straw is available, because the young chicks often eat some of their bedding. Eating litter of this nature develops crop trouble which often kills the young chicks, says the United States Department of Agriculture. The best cure is to prevent by using short cut hay or straw for bedding. It is soft and easy for the chicks to scratch in and is a good absorbent while the hay, especially if clover or alfalfa hay is used, is a good, bulky food for chicks in addition to being readily digestible. Sand may also be used in the brooder scratch pens where cut hay is not available, although the latter material is preferable.

Wasted Grain Can Be Saved

Where poultrymen purchase cracked corn, feeding this grain in the litter there is always a loss of about 20 per cent of the finest grain, which is wasted and thrown out with the chaff. United States Department of Agriculture specialists advise poultrymen to sift all cracked corn they purchase or prepare at home in order to remove the finest ground material they can mix with pinhead oats and cracked wheat in order to make an ideal feed for young chickens or use in the mash for laying hens. Where cracked corn costs about $3 a bag, a loss of about 60 cents' worth of the very fine grain ordinarily occurs. Practice of the sieving method recommended will minimize this loss.

Few Nervous Cases

War left but few cases of nervous or mental disorders among men in the army and navy. Statistics of the War Risk Insurance Bureau show that three of every thousand men called into the service have been discharged for such disorders. Many of these have since been restored to health. Treatment for these cases is being given at a hospital the War Department has established at Waukesha, Wisconsin.

Schools For Our Soldiers

More than 200,000 soldiers in the American forces overseas are enrolled in the schools which the Government has established to equip them for better positions and wages when they return to civil life. To most of these young men these schools offer a greater opportunity for cultural and vocational training than would have been theirs if they had not entered the army.

These schools are so graduated that they afford instruction in elementary subjects, academic courses and training in a great university established near Paris, and postgraduate careers in the foremost French and British universities. While serving their country as soldiers, these young men may at the same time benefit themselves as students. They are combining mental improvement with physical well-being and wholesome discipline that will safeguard them from the evils of life in barracks.

Reports to the war department show that these young Americans are testifying to their appreciation of the advantages presented to them by their attention to their studies. Those whose commands are ordered back to the United States may apply for transfers to continue their education.

This is the first time in history that provision has been made by the United States for the education of its soldiers.

League of Nations Meeting Held

A state convention to express popular ratification of the League of Nations Covenant now awaiting the approval of United States Senate will be held in Pittsburgh, Wednesday, June 4th, under the auspices of the Pennsylvania State Branch of the League to Enforce Peace.

The announcement was made today through A. B. Wright of the University of Pittsburgh, as secretary of the Convention Committee. Efforts will be made to assemble a representative group from all parts of the State.

The convention will be addressed by a distinguished company of speakers headed by ex-president William H. Taft and including Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, chairman of the Woman's Committee of the Council of National Defense; John H. Walker, State Federation of Labor and one of the leaders of the United Mine Workers; Herbert S. Houston, publisher of the World's Work; Captain Thomas C. Chamberlain, First Battalion, Anti-Aircraft Artillery, U. S. A. and Hamilton Holt of New York, editor of The Independent.

The convention announcement says: All men and women interested in securing the ends for which the war was fought are invited to attend. The Convention is called to hear the Covenant explained and to consider and adopt plans whereby its essential importance for the welfare of America and of mankind may be made known to the people of New Jersey, and the support of the people therefor be manifested in organization, in meetings, resolutions and in other forms of expression, to the end that the Covenant may be ratified.

The Covenant for a League of Nations, in the amended form adopted by the Paris Peace Conference, should satisfy all except those who oppose any League whatever. It is now a thoroughly American instrument include the more important roughly non-partisan. Recent amendments include the fore important changes proposed by the leaders of the Republican party.

The Covenant asks the American people to surrender neither their honor, nor their independence, nor their dominant position in the New World. It involves no obligations that we should not be ready to assume to lessen the danger of future wars.

Opponents must show their true colors. The old argument: We are for a League, but not the League—will no longer serve. The issue now is The League or none.

The fate of the Covenant rests with the American people. While the Senate has power to ratify, to amend, or to reject it, to amend it is to require a reconsideration by all the nations parties to it and to postpone peace indefinitely.

RATIFICATION BY SENATE ASSURED

The Senate's ratification of the peace treaty including the league of nations covenant, is assured, according to a poll of members of the Senate by the League to Enforce Peace.

The poll shows sixty four Senators for the league only twelve against, and twenty doubtful.

The twelve Senators definitely classed as opposed to the league are: Borah, of Idaho; Sherman, Illinois; New Indiana; Lodge, Massachusetts; Reed, Missouri; Moses, New Hampshire; Frelinghuysen, New Jersey; Fall, New Mexico; Wadsworth, New York; Penrose and Knox, Pennsylvania; Poindexter, Washington.

Sixty four votes are the two-thirds necessary to ratification but the statement by the League to Enforce Peace indicates that a number of Senators who are classed as doubtful will probably vote for ratification and that several of those classed at present as against will cast affirmative votes when the time comes. In fact the list as made up by the League to Enforce Peace shows only four Senators as being unalterably opposed to the league—Senators Borah, Reed, Poindexter and Sherman—and some of the more optimistic advocates of the league express the belief that when the covenant finally comes before the Senate for a vote, these four will be about the only ones who will stand out against the overwhelming sentiment of the country and oppose ratification.
